

It would appear that, once again, an entrenched (and one could say moribund) industry is seeking to limit the competitive activities of a subsequent player. Satellite radio is a technology whose time has come. I urge you to reject the appeal of the NAB and to foster growth in this promising new industry.